How will I Touch the Moon?

by Sydney Kim
There was a curious girl whose name was Helen. One day, her family took her to go star gazing. While gazing at stars, Helen was dazzled by an amazing sight. It was the moon. She had seen the moon before, but this was the BIGGEST, BRIGHTEST moon she had ever seen! All of a sudden, Helen longed to touch the moon. To touch the moon, Helen looked for things to help her reach the moon.
She first found a chair and placed it in her backyard. She stood on the chair and reached for the moon but she could not touch it. She then took her big house and put it on top of her chair. She stood on top of the house that was on top of the chair, but she still could not touch the moon.
Helen did not give up. As she looked some more, she noticed a plane flying above her. She took the plane and put it on top of her house that was on top of the chair that was on top of the ground. Helen still could not touch the moon.
Helen was no quitter. Soon enough she put the Earth on top of the airplane that was on top of the house that was on top of the chair that was on top of the ground. Still, Helen could not touch the moon.
When all seemed lost, her parents came to her with a huge pot of water. Her mom said, "Go ahead, look into the water." Curious Helen slowly peered into the water and saw the bright moon reflected in the night sky! Even more curiously, she put her hand into the water and wrapped her hand around the moon. She happily exclaimed, "For once I am touching the moon!"
How would Helen feel about touching the moon’s shining light? Helen felt like her dream came true, and she took another big step in life.
